

International Research Network for Food Quality and Health

Organic Food Quality and Health Seminar Tuesday May 18., from 9-10 am CET at ZOOM

The workshop is free of charge, but you have to sign up at

FQH-registration@nexs.ku.dk in order to get the zoom link for the meeting

Program:

9.00-9.05 Welcome by Carola Strassner, President FQH

9.05 – 9.35 Presentation of the Chicken project by Machteld Huber, MD, PhD, one of the cofounders of FQH

9.35-9.55 Discussions in break-out rooms with use of padlets (to be shared with all participants)

9.55-10.00 Wrap-up, presentation of next workshop and goodbye

The scientific details of the Dutch chicken project

When the FQH association was funded in 2003, its first activity was a two day international expert conference, to discuss the design of a researchproject that could investigate possible health effects of organic food in humans.

Here the study was designed, which was later performed as 'the chicken project'.

- What were the scientific details of this design?
- Which were the biomarkers that were studied?
- What conclusions can be drawn?
- What are the lessons learned from this project?
- What should future research look like?

How it all ended can be seen in a documentary of a critical Dutch tv-station.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=YNEU6JMy2cQ>

The seminar is about the study itself.